

Terms of use for SMA Mineral's website

This website is for SMA Mineral's customers, partners, and other visitors in order to provide information about the company and our products and services.

All material on the website is provided by SMA Mineral AB (corporate identity number 556206-3874). By visiting our site, you agree to our privacy policy, cookie management, and the following terms.

The content of the website is updated regularly and information may be replaced or revised at any time. SMA Mineral does not accept any liability for any inaccuracies on the website, neither in terms of its function nor in its content. This also applies to information via links. We do not accept liability for any damage that may be caused by the above.

The website contains logos and trademarks belonging to SMA Mineral or third parties. Any illegal use of these is prohibited.

When you send information to us via our website, you acknowledge that we may use this information, that this information is not confidential, and that the material does not contain viruses.

You may not:

- copy, transfer, or distribute the material other than for your own use;
- manipulate or falsify the content;
- use the material to state that you represent SMA Mineral;
- spread spam or unwanted e-mail; or
- save personal data about SMA Mineral's employees, who can be found on the website.

Please contact us if you have any questions about SMA Mineral's terms of use.